

Jobs Panel

Wednesday, September 11, 2019, 4:05 p.m. (9th Period)
(in the Atrium)

Speakers: Stephen Adams, Zachary Hamaker, Scott McCullough,
Sergei Pilyugin, and Tracy Stepien

Description: The Jobs Panel is an annual talk hosted by the GMA in which professionals in the mathematical community come together to explain a little about the application and hiring processes for aspiring mathematicians. Zachary Hamaker and Tracy Stepien are two of UF's newly hired assistant professors; Stephen Adams is one of our newly hired lecturers; Scott McCullough was head of the search committee for new assistant professors last year (Spring 2018); and Sergei Pilyugin was head of the search committee for new lecturers this past spring (Spring 2019). The format of the panel is generally question-and-answer, so bring your questions. The focus this year will be jobs in Academia.